

RadLibs

1. a bone _____
2. verb ending in “-ing” _____
3. type of radiology scan _____
4. article of clothing _____
5. verb _____
6. body part _____
7. article of clothing _____
8. number _____
9. a bone _____
10. adjective _____
11. verb _____

RadLibs

Your a bone has been verb ending in "-ing" for a couple weeks, your doctor has recommended you get a type of radiology scan. You are in the waiting room of your town's imaging center. You get called to the back and change into a article of clothing. You walk into the imaging room and the radiologist tech tells you to verb so that they can get an image of body part. The imaging tech takes a couple of pictures and you are done. You leave the imaging room and change back into article of clothing. After waiting for number minutes, the radiologist comes out to tell you that you a bone is adjective. You have been sent home with strict instructions not to verb and to rest.

Advanced
Partner

